NATIONAL R.V. INC.

National RV is proud to introduce the 2001 Tropi-Cal motor home—designed for those who want to upgrade to the finest gas motor home available.

Tropi-Cal's exterior skirting is built with an all gel-coated exterior finish that will stand up to the worst elements and keep your motor home looking good looking as new for years to come. The secret to the gel-coating process is that it is far more durable than paint and maintains its luster far longer than paint. Scratch a Tropi-Cal with its gel-coated finish and you can easily buff it out. Scratch a painted motor home and you'll have to deal with unsightly touch-ups or repainting.

National RV's commitment to quality was never more evident than in our rich, spacious interiors. Our attention to detail is evident in the tight fit and finish found in each Tropi-Cal. Cabinets fit flush with the roof and walls, no rubber molding is used to hide gaps between cabinets and walls and no unsightly staples are used to attach interior finish paneling (which can leave holes in your cabinets). Add the warmth of walnut finished cabinetry and you'll never look at an interior space quite the same again.

This form fitting interior is built on the strongest foundation in the industry—our patented Duraframe® sub-floor chassis system. The Duraframe® significantly reduces chassis twisting which can cause the structure of a motor home to deteriorate with age resulting in those dreaded "squeaks and rattles." Our side walls, ceilings and floors are the finest available. Side walls are vacuum-laminated in our state-of-the-art facilities and are built using steel framing. Mende exterior gel coated fiberglass walls and 1/4" Mahogany interior paneling around 2 lb. density customer cut foam insulation. Top to bottom, the Tropi-Cal is a plush motor home built to last.
